Summary

The Australian avocado industry is experiencing a large growth phase in production and from 2012 to 2015 the Australian avocado industry annual production increased from 49 500 tonnes to 57 600 tonnes, an increase of 16%. Creating an environment in which market forces work efficiently to clear product quickly through the supply chain is essential under these conditions. In the past, the retail avocado market tended to operate independently from these market forces thus creating a situation where market signals throughout the supply chain were not clear and fruit could become 'backed up' in the supply chain.

AV12007 along with the precursors to this project, AV07023: Avocado Retail Price Surveys and AV09001: National Avocado Quality & Information Management System, has helped to remedy this situation. This was achieved by collecting weekly retail prices from the major metropolitan Australian markets across a range of store types and making this available to all supply chain stakeholders. This data contributed to a more transparent supply chain which, in turn, helped to facilitate the flow of an increasing product volume through the supply chain.

Although growers have a very good understanding of the prices they are receiving for fruit, until this reporting program was established, there was not an up to date retail price reporting system to alert them when market forces weren't operating to clear the market. The reporting of retail prices on a weekly basis has provided valuable, timely data that has supported a more effective and efficient supply chain.

Retail prices were collected weekly in Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne and Perth by contractors employed by Avocados Australia. The data, once collected was sent directly to a data server where the data was compiled for reporting in table and graph formats. The reported data was disseminated directly to Infocado contributors as well as being published on the Avocados Australia website to enable access by all supply chain stakeholders.

Introduction

During the development of the 2005 – 2010 Strategic Plan for the Australian Avocado Industry it was recognised that the priority issues that need to be addressed by the industry were: eating quality of avocados, productivity, and supply chain efficiency. A number of projects were developed to target these areas including AV07023: Avocado Retail Price Surveys which aimed to improve supply chain efficiency.

AV09001 National Avocado Quality and Information System was also developed to improve supply chain efficiency. It encompassed the development and ongoing maintenance of the avocado industry's crop forecasting system Infocado as well as OrchardInfo which is designed to collect information on total production and new plantings. Both systems are designed to give short and long term forecasts of the expected production of the industry. AV07023 linked closely with AV09001 as it provided further clarity from the consumer end of the supply chain about the prices consumers were paying for fruit.

This project, as well as its precursor AV07023 and AV09001 align with the Avocado Industry Strategic Plan 2011 -2016, Strategy 1.3: Maintain supply/demand balance. The projects have provided a market information system that together enables industry to monitor returns and assess its ability to maintain a balance between supply and demand.

Through Infocado, data is collected and reported from both packhouses and individual growers on actual and forecast amounts of fruit marketed in any one week including variety, destination, size and quantities. This provides avocado marketers with improved data to assist in making business decisions. Collectively, these projects provide growers and the supply chain with greater transparency leading to improved supply chain efficiency and effectiveness.

Methodology

Avocado retail price surveys were conducted in 16 stores each in four Australian capital cities (Sydney, Brisbane, Melbourne and Perth). The surveys were conducted weekly, generally on a Monday unless there was a public holiday.

In each city, surveys were conducted in the retail sectors as shown in Table 1 with a total of 64 stores included in the program. The localities and specific stores have been determined based on ABS statistics to ensure a spread across suburbs with varied socioeconomic profiles.

Table 1: Sampling Plan - Retailers

Retail sector/ business	Number of shops per city
Woolworths	3
Coles	3
IGA / Foodland / Foodworks	3
Independent chains	3
Large volume / price sensitive retailer	2
High quality retailer	2

Brisbane and Sydney are currently the only states identified with independent chains. For Perth and Melbourne, these store types were substituted with a mix of large volume/price sensitive retailers and high quality retailers.

Surveys were conducted in each city on a weekly basis and recorded via an iPhone app. In the event of these contractors not being able to collect the retail price data for a particular week, a backup person was in place to ensure that retail prices were collected every week in each of the capital cities without fail.

Conducting weekly price monitoring across all major markets allowed the indicative prevailing retail price across each market to be determined and made available to producers. This transparency has provided producers with greater insights into values throughout the supply chain.

To help build a more holistic picture of the retail environment, information on a range of other topics were collected along with the fruit price. See Table 2.

This information helped to give an indication of what the store was like; how they operate, the inferred value they placed on avocados and how they handle their avocados. The data was collected and relayed directly back to Avocados Australia. The data was housed in an online database which can be interrogated to pull out specific subsets of data from specific time frames and regions.

All pricing data was collated automatically at the end of the working day and uploaded onto the Avocados Australia website (<http://industry.avocado.org.au/RetailPricing.aspx>) for all growers and other interested parties to view. Data for the two main varieties on the Australian market were displayed on the website; Hass and Shepard.

Graphs tracking catalogue specials for the two major supermarkets Coles and Woolworths, were displayed on the website for each capital city as well. Catalogue specials for Coles and Woolworths have a significant impact on sales and demand for avocados as they are generally state wide in all Coles or Woolworths stores.

Outputs

Outputs from AV12007 comprised of:

- Weekly retail price reports from four capital cities were embedded within Weekly Infocado reports to provide direct comparisons between weekly volumes and retail prices
- Web based real time reporting of retail prices for a wider industry audience
- Articles in the Talking Avocados magazine, the avocados industry's quarterly publication
- Milestones and final project reports on the pre-determined basis
- Raw data in easily accessible electronic form for economic analysis

Outcomes

As a result of this project:

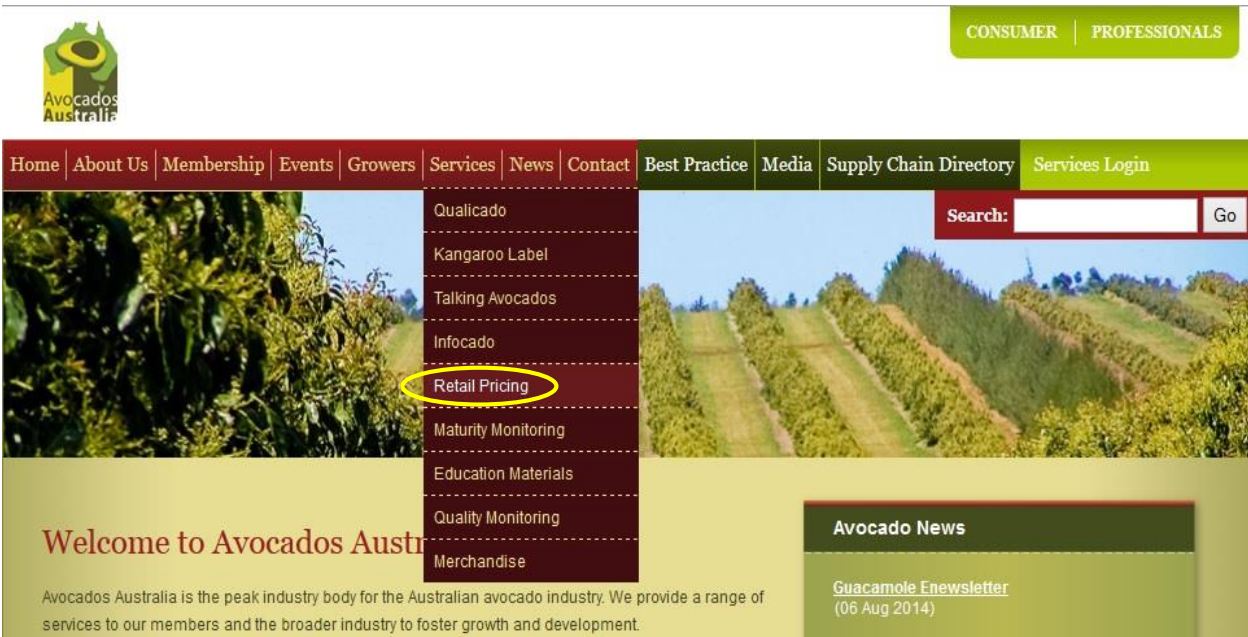

- All Australian avocado industry supply chain participants were able to access national avocado retail price information on a weekly basis to assist their business decisions.
- The combination of retail price data with product dispatch data from Infocado provided industry stakeholders with robust information to demonstrate the relationship that exists between retail price and industry throughput.
- As reported in Review of Avocado Industry and Market Information Systems. 2012. HIA Project AV11013, Horticulture Innovation Australia, stated: the collective of industry information provided (including retail price data) helped the supply chains operate more efficiently, provide opportunities to maximize returns and better meet consumers' needs and expectations.
- A detailed retail price data set is available for historical analysis of supply, demand and price relationships.

Evaluation and Discussion

Retail price plays a very important role in determining the efficiency of a supply chain. Retail price has a direct impact on how well fruit flows through the system and consequently on fruit quality. If prices are at a level that impact negatively on consumption, then at high production times of the year this can cause a back log of fruit which consequently causes quality issues. Retail price transparency therefore enables the supply chain to respond to changing market conditions.

Over the course of this project retail prices were successfully collected and reported on a weekly basis without fail. The information was communicated to the wider industry to assist them in business decision making. This was done via the website (Figure 1), Talking Avocados magazine (Appendix 1) and also Weekly Infocado Reports (Appendix 2).

The data collection process was subcontracted to existing Avocados Australia contractors. Through the use of back up contractors retail price data was collected every week for the duration of the project, ensuring a complete data set was obtained for the period (Appendix 3).

Data collection using a hand held device was successful and an application was created for use on an iPhone. Other survey data in addition to retail prices was collected providing a more extensive data set (as shown in Table 2 – Methodology). The extensive survey data collected allowed a more holistic picture of the retail environment to be displayed to industry.

The iPhone app was developed and maintained by MyWorkspace in collaboration with Avocados Australia in November 2012. The app was created to improve the timeliness of reporting retail price information to industry stakeholders. By using the app, retail prices were able to be reported to industry the day after collection.

The additional retail information categories captured included variety, number of in store displays, pack type, average fruit weights and country of origin. The “Comments” window enabled contractors to log their own feedback regarding display, quality issues and price that they observed. The “Comments” window was simply a text window that the contractor could use to record additional information. If any quality issues were observed the contractor was also able to attach a photo of the issue if relevant. As the retail price data was collected digitally, it was immediately available each week. The timeliness of Avocados Australia receiving the retail price data allowed the data to be reported in two forms, on the Avocados Australia website (Appendix 1) and in the Weekly Infocado Report (Appendix 2).

The retail prices were published on the website in tabulated and graphical formats by Avocados Australia staff members. This was to assist in wider interpretation by industry of the available data. The tabulated data (Figure 2) and graphical data (Figure 3) is shown below as an example.

By monitoring weekly retail prices across all major markets an indicative prevailing retail price across each major market was able to be determined. Due to the retail prices being communicated with Infocado data (forecasts and dispatches) this allowed suppliers to easily identify any market supply issues. Whether supply was low or high, supply chain stakeholders were better positioned to be able to read and estimate market reactions. “The collective of industry information provided, assisted in negotiations with both suppliers and customers; planning supply schedules; and planning marketing and promotion activities”¹.

If there was above average supply and a high retail price was held for prevailing weeks, the of important benefits to industry stakeholders regarding supply chain transparency. Although feedback from industry has requested a more cost effective method of retail price reporting. Avocados Australia undertook a desk top study to understand the similarities between retail price data collected in-store and on-line retail price data (Appendix 4). The objective of the study was to collect useful retail price data at a reduced cost.

The desk top study was conducted over an eight week period to establish any vast variance between the two sources of data. Findings indicated real time prices were easily obtainable from the two major chains, Coles and Woolworths and the information collected via the website provided a valuable insight to retail price trends of these retailers which handle 50% of the Australian avocado market.

There were two major limitations to this approach: the availability of on-line information across various store types, and the absence of fruit size information. Both issues are currently addressed within the existing methodology. Retail groups such as IGA, Foodworks and Aldi have a weak on-line presence using only on-line catalogues. The catalogues only displayed avocado prices when they were included which was infrequent. Independent retailers had a very low on-line presence and could not be relied upon to provide retail price data via the internet.

Although the breadth of data was reduced compared to the current method it was still advantageous due to the ability to display the retail price trend at a much reduced cost. Therefore, a new retail price reporting methodology has been developed and is recommended for implementation.

Recommendations

The following is a list of recommendations from the successful completion of AV12007:

- Retail price data collection should continue to assist in providing supply chain transparency
- A new, low-cost retail price monitoring methodology using on-line retail price data should be adopted
- If continuing to provide retail price on a regular basis, efforts should be made to encapsulate wholesale price data as well for greater supply chain transparency
- Economic analysis should be conducted on the relationship, if any, between supply / forecasts to wholesale and retail price trends

It also enables easy differentiation between Australian and New Zealand Hass. The pink line illustrates the monthly volume that was forecast for that period of time.

The forecast for the coming 12 months illustrates the increased volume that has been estimated. This volume seems to be quite well spread with six months peaking above the 1,200,000 tray equivalent/month. If dispatches follow the forecast it will mean quite a few weeks where 250,000 – 300,000 tray equivalents will be marketed.

Retail Prices

As avocado dispatch volumes have varied over the 2015 year, retail prices have been fairly consistent with minimal movement to the average price (see Figure 1, 2, 3 & 4).

The most uniformity of the average singular price has been seen in Perth and Melbourne with $3.00 per avocado being steady over the last six months. The Brisbane retail market has shown more variance with the single price varying from $2.00-$3.00 over the same period whilst Sydney has shown more strength with the single price hovering between $3.00-$3.50.

With a fair portion of the estimated volume yet to be dispatched from Western Australia and New Zealand the coming months will no doubt be quite interesting.

The HIA project that provides the funding to monitor and report avocado retail prices will be finishing at the end of November 2015 and HIA has determined that it will not continue to fund this activity beyond then therefore, this service will be discontinued. Avocados Australia is investigating alternative retail price monitoring mechanisms and if a new low-cost format is considered useful by supply chain stakeholders this service may be provided in the future.

INFOCADO WEEKLY REPORT: 31st Oct—6th Nov 2015 (Week 45)

Comments

- The weekly dispatch volume (289,513 trays) was higher than the weeks forecast by about 27,300 trays (10%) (refer P 2 & 3).
- The larger weekly volumes are forecast to continue into the next month, holding steady around 265,000 to 290,000 5.5kg tray (refer P 2).
- The largest volume of dispatches originated from Western Australia (181,495 tray eqv.). The Sydney market continues to receive the highest volume (102,925 tray eqv.), size 20 fruit continues to dominate total supplies (refer P 3).
- All packhouses and consolidators are reminded to update their 15 month Seasonal Forecast forms when available. The 15mth forecast is important as AAL uses this data to lock in the pre-harvest forecast before each region commences harvest (as now shown on P 4).
- Average retail price for Hass continues to hold steady across all major cities although this does not include multi-buy offers. Highest and lowest recorded retail prices was $4.99 and $0.98 / fruit, in Sydney and Brisbane respectively (refer P 6 - 8).
- All regions starting harvest are encouraged to carefully monitor fruit maturity, to ensure consumer satisfaction which drives future purchases.

Marketing Update: Chefs Love Avocados

This month we launched the Chefs Love Avocados mini-series! Over the past few months we caught up with a few of Sydney's most renowned chefs about their love of avocados and how they have incorporated them onto their menus at their cafes.

The chefs included Andy Davies from the iconic Bondi Trattoria, Adam Starr from the hip Barmuda in Newtown and Kristian Gamble from the award-winning venue Ripples, right under the Harbour Bridge at Luna Park.

Each chef was filmed preparing their favourite dishes making it very easy for our Avocado Lovers to replicate at home. These delicious dishes included avocado and corn fritters; the ever popular smashed avocado and buffalo milk ricotta; avocado and cured ocean trout; avocado, quinoa and poached egg salad; and avocado with salmon and fennel.

IMPORTANT and PLEASE NOTE:

The monthly forecast and dispatch figures in the Quarterly Infocado Report incorporate an allowance (which varies by region) to allow for the production forecasts and dispatches that are not inputted into the Infocado system. This production (dispatch and forecast) data is not inputted for various reasons including some packhouse's unwillingness to engage with industry and/or lack of computer access. For this reason it is not possible to extrapolate the figures from the Weekly Infocado Report to come up with either the dispatch and/or forecast figures in the Quarterly Infocado Report. At any time the Weekly Infocado Report incorporates around 85% of total production and forecasts however this does vary depending on time of year (as a result of the fruit coming from different regions with different levels of packhouse input). It is not functionally possible to incorporate allowances for missing data into the Weekly Infocado Report hence the variance between it and the Quarterly Infocado Report.

1 REQUIREMENT

Avocados Australia (AAL) currently collects weekly pricing data from 4 major capital cities (Sydney, Brisbane, Melbourne and Perth). This pricing data is collected by contractors who visit stores whilst undertaking other industry development activities (quality assessment and retail training).

It has recently been suggested by a HIA advisory group that the collection of retail pricing data should be reviewed. As a result Avocados Australia would like to determine if the collection of online pricing data is a suitable substitute for in-store collection of retail pricing data and if so, the appropriate processes and expected ongoing costs involved.

2 APPROACH

The following approach was adopted:

1. Over an 8 week period, from 3 August 2015 to 21 September 2015, online pricing data was collected from the major and other retailers. Online pricing was sourced from online shopping services and/ or online catalogues each Monday over this period.

Data was collected from all major chains and one independent retailer that had an online shopping service. Hence data was collected from Coles, Woolworths and Harris Farm Markets.

The major retail groups (Coles, Woolworths, IGA¹, Foodworks, Aldi) all publish weekly online catalogues each Wednesday. When possible, dependent on avocado being present in catalogues, pricing data was also collected from these sources, as well.

In achieving our aim of capturing all relevant pricing data from the 4 major capital cities (Sydney, Brisbane, Melbourne and Perth), at least 4 suburbs from each city were searched on all retail websites (including online shopping services and online catalogues). The suburbs searched weekly for each city were as follows:

- Brisbane – Ashgrove (4060), Everton Hills (4053), Wynnum (4178) and Buranda (4102),
- Sydney – Pennant Hills (2120), Manly (2095), Liverpool (2170) and Coogee (2034),
- Melbourne – Carlton (3053), Chadstone (3148), Werribee (3030) and Dandenong (3175)
- Perth – Cottesloe (6011), Fremantle (6160), Joondalup (6027) and North Perth (6006).

If no stores existed in the suburbs listed above, other surrounding suburbs were randomly chosen.

Harris Farm Markets' delivery areas were divided into 3 separate zones within Sydney, so to capture these zones and any differences in avocado online pricing, Bondi (2026) of zone 1 and Baulkham (2153) of zone 2 were searched from week 5 onwards.

Considerable effort was made to identify other independent retailers that offered online shopping / catalogues. Web searches were undertaken and AAL contractors who are working with retailers were asked if they knew of any retailers with online shopping capacity. Unfortunately we were not successful in identifying any other suitable businesses.

2. In-store collected pricing data (collected by AAL contractors) over the same eight (8) week period was sourced from AAL.

Raw pricing data collected by contractors was supplied by AAL on a weekly basis.

3. Assess similarities and differences in the two data sets.

Consistent weekly online pricing data was only obtainable from Coles, Woolworths and Harris Farm Markets. As outlined above, information provided online by IGA, Foodworks and Aldi was only available when avocados featured in their online catalogues.

Comparison tables and graphs were developed to show the differences between in-store collected and online pricing for individual Hass fruit (single unit) in Coles and Woolworths (see 'Results' section).

Where possible, in-store collected and online 'specials' were recorded and compared (see 'Results' section). Over the 8 week period in which this exercise was undertaken, multi-buy specials (e.g. 2 (units) for $4) were particularly prominent.

4. Provide a process, reviewed report format and an indication of the annual cost to develop a weekly report for the industry.
5. Discuss the findings with key stakeholders in the industry (e.g. growers, marketers and wholesalers) and determine if utilising online pricing data is a suitable substitute or will address the needs of the industry in respect to the provision of information to support management and marketing decisions.
6. If appropriate, update data collection processes and report format in line with feedback from stakeholders.

3 RESULTS

3.1 GENERAL FINDINGS

3.1.1 Limitations of data

1) Fruit size

One of the limitations of online data collection, in comparison to the in-store data collection process, is that Coles and Woolworths do not indicate the individual fruit size or pack weight of avocados. The exceptions to this were:

- The supply of weighted bags and in this situation the number of fruit was not provided.
- Harris Farm Markets which did offer fruit of different sizes / prices online (large fruit was sold at a higher price).

It should be noted that the presence and pricing of avocados in IGA catalogues in each city could differ depending on whether the catalogue was for a Supa IGA, IGA or and IGA X-press. Some IGA stores appeared to occasionally publish store specific catalogues.

2) Consistency of online information

As IGA, Foodworks and Aldi do not have an online shopping presence - only online catalogues - and given that avocado pricing was only available when avocados featured in these catalogues, the availability of pricing data from sources other than Coles and Woolworths is very patchy. Over the 8 week period in which this assessment was conducted, avocados only appeared in catalogues:

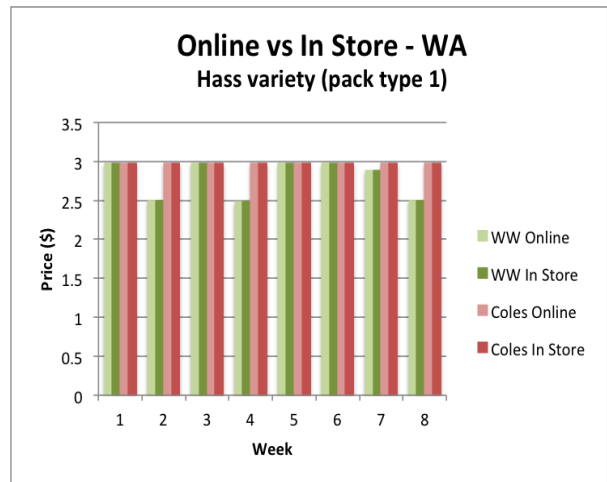

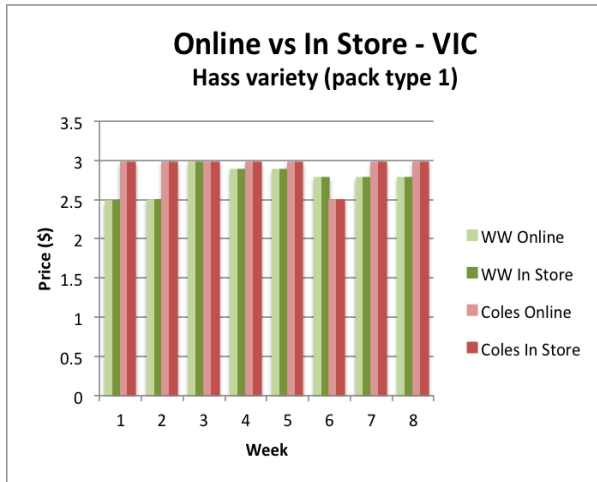

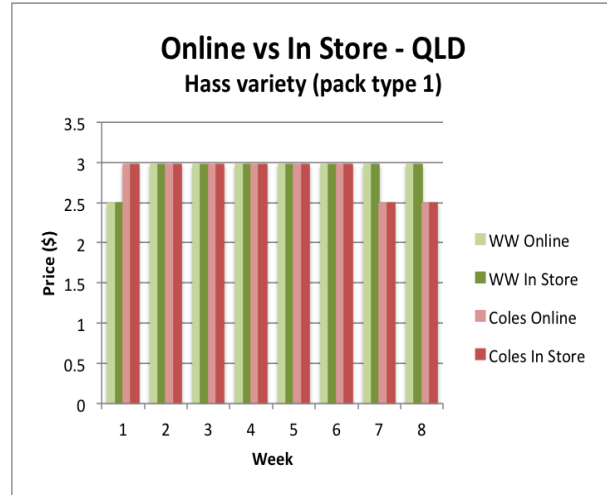

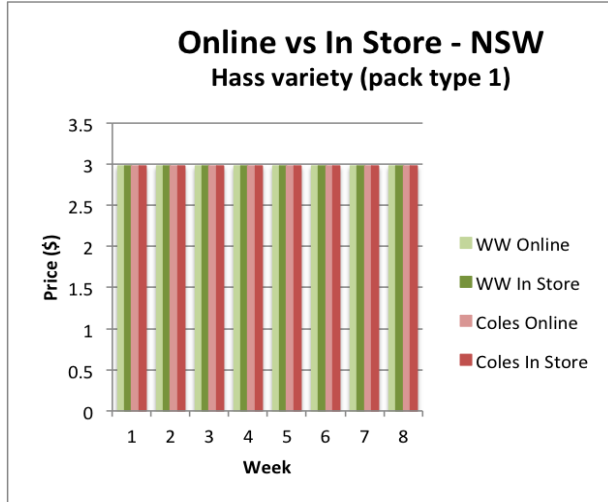

- IGA – 5 times
(Wk 1 - (Bris) Multibuy 2 for $4.00; Wk 6 - (Syd) Multibuy 2 for $4.00; Wk 7 - (Melb) Multibuy 2 for $4.00; Wk 8 - (Syd) Multibuy 2 for $4.00; Wk 8 - (Bris) Multibuy 2 for $4.00)
- Supa IGA – 1 time
(Wk 5 - (Per) Single $1.99)
- Foodworks – 7 times
(Wk 2 - (Syd) Single $1.98; Wk 4 - (Per) 3pk for $3.99; Wk 5 - (Syd) Multibuy 2 for $4.00; Wk 6 - (Per) Multibuy 2 for $4.00; Wk 6 - (Per) Single $2.39; Wk 7 - (Syd) Single $1.88; Wk 7 - (Per) Single $1.88)
- Aldi - nil times.

3.6 PRICES FOR PACKS OF 4, 5 AND 6

Over the 8 week period, there was insufficient pricing data on multi-packs of 4, 5, 6 fruit from both online and in-store collected sources for comparative purposes. The results for these pack types are shown in Appendix 3.

4 SUGGESTED REPORT FORMAT AND ON-GOING REQUIREMENTS

A suggested format report is provided in Appendix 4 (separate attachment).

It is estimated that weekly data collection process using the process outlined in Appendix 1 and the compilation of the report takes approximately 4 hours per week. It is therefore estimated that the cost per year to collect this data and produce a weekly report is $16,640 per annum (4 hours per week x 52 weeks x $80/hour).

There should also be an allocation for some analysis (comparison of pricing and volume etc.) and communication of this analysis to industry on a quarterly basis.

5 FEEDBACK FROM KEY STAKEHOLDERS

Feedback regarding the current retail pricing report and online pricing report was provided by industry key stakeholders, including:

- Richard Clayton, Mackays Marketing
- Lachlan Donovan, Donovan Family Trust
- Antony Allen, The Avolution
- Daryl Boardman, Sunnyspot Packhouse
- Russell Delroy, Delroy Orchards?
- Jim Kochi (Grower – North Queensland)
- John Walsh, Simpson Farms
- Alison Tolson (Grower / Packer- Central NSW)

As a guide the following areas of questioning were discussed:

1. Do they use the current retail pricing report?
2. What value does it provide you?
3. Would the online report be of value?
4. Can you see value in the online report for industry? To track retail price over time? To be able to demonstrate relationship between volume and retail price and effective product flow through the supply chain etc.
5. Do you think the limitations are too limiting? E.g. really only Coles and Woolworths data, no size, no product source?
6. What else would you like to see in the online report if it goes ahead?
7. Do you want to see the current reporting maintained? Yes or no?
8. Would you support the new pricing collection process? Yes or no?

The findings indicated that:

- More than half of those consulted looked at the weekly retail pricing report. This often was only to validate information they already had.
- Businesses involved in supplying the major supermarkets were already aware of the information contained in the report, as this was imperative for conducting business.
- Generally it was considered that the information was of limited value for individual businesses, however there was a definite appreciation that this information would be valuable for the industry to have track retail price over time and to be able to demonstrate relationship between volume and retail price and effective product flow through the supply chain etc.

- For the same reasons stated above, the majority of those consulted thought the online report would be of limited value for individual businesses but of value to the industry. However one business indicated that if a weekly standalone report was available they would likely send it on to their growers for information purposes.
- Three respondents indicated that the limitations with the online data (only Coles & Woolworths detailed data, no fruit size and no source) significantly reduced the value of the data. Two other respondents said that these limitations were not an issue (as it was known the general size range of fruit going to the supermarkets and major marketers know the split of Australian and New Zealand fruit going into various capital city markets).
- On balance the majority of those consulted did not support the continuation of investment in the current in-store collection of prices, based on the value (cost vs benefit) to industry and/ or because there was nearly equivalent data available through online pricing collection.
- The majority of those consulted indicated they would support, or not be unsupportive of, the collection and reporting of online pricing because of its value to industry, and particularly because the level of investment required is substantially lower.

Other requests / comments included:

- It was also commented that if the industry did not collect retail pricing data but needed this data in the future, if it was available, it would likely be significantly more to purchase.
- The request for greater analysis to be undertaken on existing retail pricing data to identify trends affecting the industry and to better understand the relationship between a range of variables and price. If there is worthwhile information from further analysis then perhaps current data collection should be maintained, so a complete data set over time is available.
- The request for the current raw data sets (8 years of data collection) to be made available to commercial companies for further analysis.
- For the online report to be of the most value it should ideally be made available on the same day that retailer catalogues are released (each Wednesday).

6 CONCLUSION

Avocado pricing information collected from Coles and Woolworths online services / catalogues in the major capital cities appears to provide a good snapshot of weekly pricing.

Results show that online pricing for single and multi-buy Hass avocados consistently reflects in-store collected prices. There was insufficient information on multi-packs of 4, 5, 6 fruit to determine if online pricing was consistent with in-store pricing.

The major limitation of data from these online sources is that fruit size and sometimes origin is not available. The latter may be a greater issue when New Zealand fruit arrives in the market in volume, however some marketers indicated that these limitations were overcome by the existing knowledge that marketers had access to.

On balance, stakeholders were supportive of online pricing collection particularly because of the value the data could provide for industry and because the level of investment was low.

7 RECOMMENDATIONS

It is recommended that:

- Online pricing data as outlined in this report should be collected and reported as an alternate to in-store collected pricing data.
- The report should be made available to industry each Wednesday, to correspond with the release of new weekly catalogues. These should be made available online (on the AAL website) and stakeholders given the option to also receive it by email on the Wednesday. In addition it can also be added to the following weeks Weekly Infocado Report.
- Some preliminary analysis of data should be undertaken and reported to industry on a regular basis (Quarterly through Talking Avocados).
- The value of the data generated is reassessed on an annual basis to ensure that the investment by industry is providing appropriate benefit.
- Further consideration should be given to the value of undertaking analysis of the existing data. If considered worthwhile then an allocation of funding would need to be justified / requested.

APPENDIX 1: METHODOLOGY FOR COLLECTING WEEKLY DATA

Woolworths data collection

1. Search Woolworths' online shopping website (URL: www.woolworths.com.au)
2. Under the 'Shop Online' tab (URL: <https://www2.woolworthsonline.com.au>), refine location (I'd like to pick up my groceries from CHOOSE LOCATION HERE – Filter by state, I'll reserve a time slot later) – Note: As data is to be collected from Syd, Bris, Melb and Perth, 4 suburbs (postcodes) must be used to find relevant data of each state (suburbs used mentioned prior).
3. Then, under the search tab (magnifying glass symbol), search 'Avocado'
4. Following this, under the 'All Products' tab (automatically selected), the results for 'Avocado' will be displayed, providing the necessary data to input onto the template sheet.
5. After recording data from all 4 states (NSW, QLD, VIC and WA), click 'Specials' tab and under the drop down 'Catalogue' tab - enter the postcodes (provided above) and search any relevant avocado catalogue specials. Also enter this data into the template, remembering to distinguish the special was found in a catalogue (Online shopping/ catalogue column)
6. Record relevant data.

Coles data collection

7. Search Coles' online shopping website (URL: <https://coles.com.au>) and click the tab 'Shop online'.
8. Click 'Shop now', followed by 'Get Started' and enter the postcodes (provided above).
9. Search for 'Avocado' in the search bar at the top of the website.
10. Enter the necessary and relevant data into avocado pricing template. (Repeat this for all 4 required states).
11. Search Coles' catalogues and specials for all 4 required states ('change location' tab) (URL: <http://www.coles.com.au/catalogues-and-specials/view-all-available-catalogues>)
